ABOUT EDWARD

Edward Roske is a data scientist who's spent twenty-five years inside the Office of the CFO. He founded interRel Consulting at twenty-two, ran it for two and a half decades as one of the longest-standing Oracle Platinum EPM Partners, and in 2020 merged it into Argano, a billion-dollar global consulting firm. Now building Caprus, an AI software and services company built for the Office of the CFO.

He's the author of fifteen books in the Look Smarter Than You Are series (written from 2007 to today), host of the Asking Good Questions podcast, president of the Puerto Rico AI Community (850+ executives), and co-chair of the 2026 Caribbean AI Summit. He holds an MS in Data Science from SMU (perfect 4.0, Outstanding Graduate).

Answers to the Questions You've Been Quietly Asking Yourself About AI

For executive audiences who are tired of generic AI predictions and want frameworks for the questions they're already wrestling with privately. Works as a keynote, a fireside chat, or the opening session of an executive offsite.

02 / KEYNOTE

Business Leaders Guide to AI

AI is rewriting every process inside the company, from how finance closes the books to how marketing writes a brief to how engineering ships a feature. What's actually changing, where to start (the highest-leverage pilots), and where to go next once the first wave lands.

03 / KEYNOTE

Building a Company in the Era of AI

Founded interRel at twenty-two. Ran it for twenty-five years. Merged it into a billion-dollar firm. Now building Caprus. A keynote for founders and operators on how building an organization changes when AI is rewriting the underlying business model.
